Heritage Plantation

Those who admire fine machines and great craftsmanship will delight in the collection of vintage automobiles at Heritage Plantation. Cars builts between 1899 and 1937 with the great names of the auto industry such as Duesenberg, Mercer, Stutz, Cord, Packard, Rolls Royce and many more not quite as familiar today such as White and Stanley are housed there in a replica of an ingenious round Shaker barn. This barn was designed to house and efficiently feed 53 head of cattle so that a great number of workers could work at once and no one would get in the other's way. The structure is handhewn, carpeted and displays the cars on two levels. The cars are restored to mint condition, standing and gleaming under the lights just as they were built. Brass sparkles in fine woodwork, leather is set in polished lacquer. These cars are jewels of the art and the whole progress of the industry can be seen in the progression of horseless carriage to huge chariot. Some of these cars are

Selectmen's Meeting

SEWER TIE-IN DELAY

Selectmen conferred with Tighe & Bond engineer Ron Michalski on the problems in Fairhaven that are now delaying the sewer hook-up. Michalski advised that Fairhaven expects that it will take another two weeks to resolve the problems with their pumps which do not meet desired performance specifications. He said that he will invite the E.V.A. inspector to Mattapoisett to inspect this town's system which is now 99% complete. Some minor work remains to be done on the pumping station which is otherwise ready to operate. The Selectmen requested that Tighe & Bond prepare an operating manual for the use of Superintendent Charles Morgan who will assume the operation duties. It will cost approximately $1000.

Selectman William Hubbard continued to oppose the paying of a bill to Bay Corporation for replacing of 85 feet of street drain pipe at Barstow and Church

Michalski said the original break had been caused because the line of excavation had to be moved to avoid a gas line. He said that the clay pipe is extremely easy to break when the ground is disturbed near it.

Paul M. Kelley, Jr. submitted his resignation from the Council on Aging where he was serving as chairman and from his post in Civil Defense. He gave no reason. The Selectmen accepted with regret.

Letter to the Editor

July 22, 1979, will go down in Rochester history as a DAY TO BE REMEMBERED, for on this day the magnificent ROCHESTER 300 PARADE took place....and what a parade it was! The 3.1 mile parade route was ultimately traversed by a parade 3.4 miles long. Our tree-shaded streets were thronged with thousands of expectant, happy faces. Here and there families picnicked, sharing sandwiches and cool drinks, and young and old alike seemed bent on capturing every bit of the excitement and festive spirit that permeated the sparkling summer air.

Because of the magnitude of the entire experience, we know it is highly probable that we have missed thanking some of those who so richly deserve to be thanked. Through this letter we want to take the opportunity to say.....to all the parade participants, to the multitudes who came from far and wide to view it, to the neighbors and friends in surrounding towns who so wholeheartedly shared our joy, to the towns of Marion, Mattapoisett and Wareham who especially remembered their Rochester roots, to the dignitaries who honored us with their presence, and to our own Rochester people who made it all happen, "thank you from the bottom of our hearts for this never to be forgotten day"!

THINK ABOUT IT! With gasoline exceeding $1. per gallon, local residents will be more inclined to shop locally. If you are interested in opening a small shop on an equity basis, why not consider a Village Bazaar concept ... that is, several shops under one roof. For example, four 450 sq.ft. shops, each attracting shoppers, large enough to be viable entities & small enough to be affordable. The property at 8 Church St. provides for this creative possibility. A 4000 sq.ft. block building with all utilities, available parking, within easy walking distance of 100 village homes. Extremely favorable financing available.

VALUE! New Bedford's Historic District - Dutch Colonial, 2-family. Fireplaces, modern kitchens & baths, central heat, business-zoned, parking available. $24,900.

EAST FAIRHAVEN - Office/warehouse building. Business-zoned, all utilities. 2400 sq.ft., excellent condition. $43,500.

YMCA

The New Bedford YMCA is pleased to announce a brand new swim team with a brand new program upcoming for this fall. Operations Director Lou Rodrigues and Aquatic Director Pat Beehan have teamed up with new coach, Kris W. Hauge, to totally change things around and to put new blood in the "Y's" swimming lanes, as Hauge put it.

The new coach went on to say that the YMCA pool is by far the best in the city and it's our goal to take young swimmers and develop them as far as they can go in their age group and they will also learn the value of team work, doing the best

MASS ART WANTS TO FIND ITS GRADUATES

The Massachusetts College of Art is attempting to find the whereabouts of over 26,000 graduates. In the history of the college there have been over 106 graduating classes, with more than 30,000 alumni, yet the Alumni Office has addresses for only about 4,000 graduates.

Paul McCaffrey, Director of Community Services, is asking graduates to write to him with their new addresses. "The graduates of the College of Art", McCaffrey noted, "represent a resource and they must be involved in the college's future. We are planning a number of new and different activities in this coming year including a newsletter, homecoming events, and a special exhibition of alumni art works. In order to involve the alumni in these activities we need correct addresses." Please send your updated address to Paul McCaf-

Wood Fuel

SEPTEMBER PROCLAIMED WOOD ENERGY MONTH

Americans are rediscovering wood. With more than 22 million homes equipped with at least one woodburning fireplace and millions more with wood stoves, wood as a fuel is growing at a rate of five to seven percent a year. And it has been estimated that this trend will continue for the next 15 years.

Today 65 percent of all new single family dwellings have at least one fireplace, and 50 percent of all higher priced homes ($100,000 or more) have more than one, according to the FIREPLACE INSTITUTE.

In addition, wood stove sales have increased phenomenally--seven-fold since 1972. In fact, estimates now place the number of new wood stoves being added to the nation's supply at nearly a million a year.

There's no mystery as to why millions of consumers yearly are turning to wood energy for home heating. Since 1973 there's been an unprecedented rise in oil and gas prices, and a constant threat of a shortage. Unlike oil and electricity, wood is dependable. It is not affected by the world market or downed power lines during winter storms.

This, coupled with increasingly brutal winters nationwide, has caused millions of families to depend on woodburning appliances for supplemental and/or primary heat. Based on 1976 U.S. Census figures, there are now probably four to five million households equipped to derive all or part of their heat from wood.

As a result, manufacturers of woodburning appliances were hard pressed to meet all the requests for factory-engineered fireplaces and air-tight woodburning stoves last year. The FIREPLACE INSTITUTE, the international trade association of manufacturers, distributors and dealers of fireplaces, woodburning stoves and fireplace accessories, sought to remedy the situation by proclaiming September WOOD ENERGY MONTH. This special promotion will alert consumers to order their woodburning appliances early as well as to stock up on their wood supply. In addition, consumer information will be provided on fireplace and/or stove care and safety, the correct way to start a fireplace fire, the types of wood to use, and money-saving tips on selecting fuelwood.

many advantages of heating with wood. Some of these advantages are:

Wood is the one energy resource in the United States that is renewable and largely nonpolluting. It contributes as much energy to the American economy as does nuclear power and has been used in one form or another by almost everyone. Our nation was built with wood, and was and is richly endowed with forests. They have not yet made their last contribution to our welfare.

Wood is abundant in our country. There is enough surplus wood to heat nearly 40 million homes all winter. Of the 500 million acres of commercial forest in the United States, only about 200-250 million acres are actually in commercial use. This means that there is about one acre of woods for each American.

Unlike fossil fuels, forests, once cut, can be replaced or regrown and cut again in 20 to 60 years time. Trees are no different than any other growing plant: they just take longer to grow.

Foresters have long recognized that if a forest is thinned periodically, and if poorly shaped or otherwise undesirable trees are removed, the remaining trees will grow faster and be stronger than if the forest were left alone. Moreover, lumbermen and woodburners want different trees, and even when they want the same tree, they want different parts. Hence, wood as an energy source need not necessarily compete with the taking of trees for lumber.

And finally, but by no means the last word on wood, the beauty of watching dancing flames in a fireplace hearth in the comfort of one's own home, roasting hot dogs and toasting marshmallows, beats stoking up the furnace or shoveling coal any day.

This is the first in a series of articles on wood and wood burning equipment from the Fireplace Institute.

OUR AMERICAN HERITAGE
FINE WINE AND WILLING BUYERS

Two wines that might by considered a part of American history were auctioned off recently for record prices.

One bottle of 1806 vintage Chateau Lafite, said to have been a favorite of founding father, Thomas Jefferson, set a new world record price for a bottle of wine when it went for $28,000 to wine merchant Charles Mara of Syracuse, New York, at the 11th Heublein Premiere National Auction of Rare Wines.

At that price the 24-ounce bottle works out to $1,166 per ounce. Mara said he has no immediate plan to taste his purchase. "I'm going to keep it," he said. "This wine is part of history."

Six bottles of rare, pre-1900 vintages from Inglenook Vineyards in California's Napa Valley also set a price record: $8,000 -- or $1,333 per bottle -- for such classics as 1887, 1892 and 1897 Cabernet Sauvignon, 1892 and 1897 Pinot Noir and an 1891 Zinfandel.

These were bought by Bert Bidwell, an Aspen, Colorado wine collector, and their price would appear to reflect the growing appreciation of our native product here and abroad.

Modern vintages from California this year also drew large bids. For example, a case of 1970 Beaulieu Vineyard Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon went for $980, and an as yet unbottled 1978 Inglenook Cask Cabernet Sauvignon, currently aging at the winery, brought prices as high as $290 per case.

These vintages apparently appealed to Graham Lyons of London, who purchased more than $6,000 worth of rare California wines, including three pre-1900 selections from Inglenook.

The largest single buyer of the day was Detroit restaurateur Don Vargo, who purchased $31,760 worth of rare wines, including $22,000 for a 21-case collection of great vintage Bordeaux.

The annual Heublein Auction provides wine collectors, restaurateurs and members of the liquor and wine trade an opportunity to for providing a variety of dramatic new communications services, while holding down costs.

Plans call for another in Springfield in 1980. Together, they will handle most of Massachusetts' interstate long distance calling.

The 4ESS has been nicknamed the "Super Switcher" because of its incredible speed. It can connect 150 calls every second -- about 550,000 an hour -- which is four times the capacity of the most advanced long distance switching equipment previously in use.

In addition to helping the Bell System hold down future long distance rates, the system also is an energy saver. When operating at full capacity, Super Switchers -- compared to its electromechanical predecessors -- will save enough energy annually to supply the electrical needs of 2,000 average homes for a year.

It also requires only one-fifth the space and one-third the maintenance cost of older machines handling the same volume of calls.

The band will perform various types of standard concert band literature. The selection of music will depend largely
